Pathology, Head & Neck Reconstruction

Indianapolis, IN
April 5 - 7, 2019
History:

In 1989, twenty surgeons came together in Strasbourg to study and promote the use of rigid fixation techniques. The organization they formed became known as the Strasbourg Osteosynthesis Research Group, or SORG. The society has grown internationally, and in 2007, the North American SORG was founded.

Goals:

- Strengthen the discipline of surgery through education and research.
- Provide educational content that meets the needs of the training program, resident, and private practitioner.
- Facilitate relationships between teaching programs, private practitioners, sub-specialty experts, and technical experts to improve patient care.

Modular Training Series

The Modular Training Series is designed to improve and maintain the skills of the Oral & Maxillofacial Surgeon in a series of weekend courses.

The modules are divided into four categories with training events held nationally twice per year.

1. Pathology, Head & Neck Reconstruction
   April 5 - 7, 2019 · JW Marriott · Indianapolis, IN

2. Congenital & Developmental Deformities
   October 11-13, 2019 · Jacksonville, FL

3. Anesthesia, Preprosthetic & Dental Implants
   2020

4. Trauma, TMJ & Cosmetic Surgery
   2020
Purpose:

Module 1 focuses on principles of clinical pathology and reconstruction of the head and neck region. The course is designed to assist the surgical professional with the diagnostic tools and surgical approaches in the comprehensive management of patients.

Learning Objectives:

At the conclusion of the course the participant will be able to:

- Apply critical thinking pathways in the differential diagnosis of lesions in the oral and maxillofacial region.
- Describe the diagnosis, epidemiology and management of oral cancer.
- Review and identify different approaches to head and neck reconstruction.
- Improve the understanding of microsurgical techniques and free flap selection.
- Discuss the indication for bone grafts and bone flaps in critical size defects.
